

Gatehouse Book Review (1)

Reviewed by: _____

Title of book:

Author:

Plot*:

Main characters:

The setting:

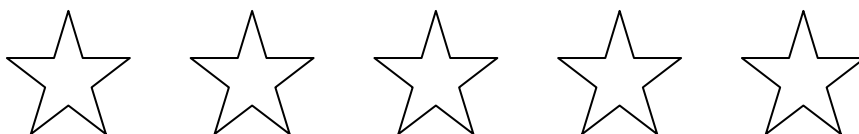

The best bits:

Anything you would have changed:

Who is this book most suitable for?:

Your opinion:

Your rating (fill in or colour the number of stars you would give the book):

Be careful how much you say - you don't want to spoil the story for other people!*

Gatehouse Book Review (2)

Write your review in sentences and paragraphs. You may prefer to use this frame as a way of planning your review.

Reviewed by: _____

Title of book:

Author:

Plot: Be careful how much you say - you don't want to spoil the story for other people!

Main characters: Who were they? What were they like? Were they believable?

The setting: Where did it take place? How did the images help with the story?

The best bits: What did you enjoy most? Why?

Anything you would have changed: What would you have liked to be different? Why?

Who is this book most suitable for?: Is it best for young people? Older people? Men? Women?

Your opinion: Anything you would like to add to your comments – think about whether you would recommend it? If so, who to? Why?

Your rating (fill in or colour the number of stars you would give the book):

Gatehouse Book Review (3)

Write your review in sentences and paragraphs. You may prefer to use this frame as a way of planning your review.

Reviewed by: _____

Title of book:

Author:

Plot: Be careful how much you say - you don't want to spoil the story for other people!

Main characters: Who were they? What were they like? Were they believable? Did you recognise the kind of things they felt and thought – could you identify with them?

The setting: Where did it take place? What role did the images play in your enjoyment of the story?

The style: Comment on the style in which it was written. Think about things like whether it was written in the first/third person – I or he/she. Did this make it more or less effective? What type of language was used? Was it descriptive enough? How much dialogue was there? What sort of feelings and ideas were explored?

The best bits: What did you enjoy most? Why?

Anything you would have changed: What would you have liked to be different? Why?

Who is this book most suitable for?: Is it best for young people? Older people? Men? Women?

Your opinion: How did you feel when you were reading the story? Afterwards? Did it make you think about anything new or differently? Did you learn anything by reading it – about people or life in general? Did you enjoy the story? Would you recommend it? Who to? Would you like to read another book by the same author?

Your rating (fill in or colour the number of stars you would give the book):

